4 Magliner Tools Apartment Managers Should Keep Handy

Moving into and out of apartments, whether apartments, condos, or townhouses, can be challenging for your tenants. However, offering them material handling tools makes the move easier and shows that you're a manager who cares. Magliner material handling tools, such as the classic 2 wheel dolly, are great for moving into and out of apartments. Here are a few tools apartment managers should have on hand.

Hand Trucks

The classic Magliner hand truck is a workhorse of the material handling industry, and it can easily help your tenants move in or out of an apartment. It's a mainstay of professional movers, helping them move boxes, totes, small pieces of furniture, and many other items. It's easy to stack moving boxes and totes on a hand truck and quickly wheel them into place, whether it's from a garage to a moving truck or vice versa. It helps save time and energy, both of which are often in short supply for tenants moving in and out. Providing them with assistance can also help form a better relationship with your tenants from the start.

Heavy Duty Hand Truck

Moving larger items like washers, fridges, and couches can be the hardest part of any move. That's where the Magliner appliance hand truck comes in. Also called a heavy duty hand truck, it offers a higher weight capacity of 800 pounds and optional accessories that are tailored to moving larger, heavier items. These include a self-retracting ratchet strap and side wings. It can prove to be an excellent resource for your tenants, making it easier for them to move their bulkiest, heaviest belongings.

Convertible Hand Truck

Another option you might offer your tenants is a Magliner convertible hand truck. It operates as both a classic upright hand truck and a horizontal cart in four-wheel mode. It's ideal for stacking even more boxes or oddly shaped items. This configuration works best on relatively level ground, so an elevator might be needed for apartments that are not on the ground floor. With a weight capacity of 1,000 pounds in four-wheel mode, this hand truck is a versatile option.

Powered Stair Climbing Dolly

The Magliner powered stair climbing dolly is ideal if you manage a townhouse with multiple floors. The powered stair climbing dolly does most of the work, making it easy to move items up or down a flight of stairs. Moving in and out of a new home is always exhausting, and the Magliner powered stair climbing dolly can help make the challenging task a bit easier.
