As retirement draws near, it is quite normal to wonder what exactly you can do with all of that money you have saved.

A bigger question, however, is how you can protect your retirement portfolio.

Recent events have told us that nothing is quite predictable now and even the best-performing sectors of the market are struggling.

So, your next best bet is accumulating assets that appreciate.

One of these assets happens to be precious metals.

Unlike traditional or Roth IRA, to own more than a handful of these legally, you will need a precious metals IRA.

Our top picks provide exceptional customer service, high-quality educational resources, and low fees, making them an excellent choice for investors looking toward diversified portfolios for retirement planning.

Many people aren't aware that you can actually hold gold, silver, and other precious metals in a retirement account.

Known as a Gold IRA, or Precious IRA, these special types of Self-Directed IRAs make it possible to diversify your portfolio and benefit from the tax breaks IRA holders receive.

A number of financial experts agree that a Gold IRA can help protect your portfolio from high inflation which is not going away and help make sure you're prepared to retire.

However, with the number of precious metals providers that offer IRA services, it can be tricky to choose which one you'd like to work with.
