

Pigments analysis refers to the physiological and biochemical analysis of their components. The physiologically active components in natural pigments are a focus of interest. Daji Belle offers pigments analysis service in order to promote the research of natural pigments and the development of special functional foods, pharmaceuticals and cosmetics. We can provide color stability analysis, nutritional analysis, antioxidant capacity analysis and other physiological activity analysis of natural pigments to meet the different needs of our customers.